TBED COLLEGE & CAREER NEWSLETTER

DIRECTOR'S NOTES

JOHN D. BARBRY
Director of Development and Programming, &
Education Department

How often do you think about your future? What are your goals after you graduate from high school? Ideally, we all should plan and take on opportunities that help us learn about continued education, military service, or workforce certification. TBED Academic Counselors can advise you on college and career preparation. TBED highlights career options in most of the enrichment activities we host. We remind you of ACT test schedules and provide prep classes and ACT fee vouchers to help you take the test. TBED coordinates tours of regional colleges, universities, and vocational schools. I know the excitement of being a senior and anticipating graduation day. At some point, we must create a clear vision of our next phase of growth and career direction. We advise that students begin their preparation as they start high school. Some students start kicking the tires and exploring careers as early as middle school. Reach out to your Academic Counselor and make a plan today!

As we approach the end of the first semester, it's time to reflect on accomplishments and prepare for the opportunities ahead. December is a busy month, and staying organized will help ensure a smooth finish to the academic year. After the hard work, we can enjoy the holidays without stress and worry.

Key Tips for Success

- Plan Your Time Wisely: Final tests and projects are just around the corner. Keep up with your child's planner or calendar daily.
- Self-Care Matters: The holiday season can be hectic, so remember to rest, eat well, and take breaks to enjoy family and recharge.

This Month: CHLOE LAGUNA

Congratulations, CHLOE, for making the Merit Honor Roll! Keep up the good work!

For high school students, November can be very important for those considering college. Early admissions deadlines are here! For juniors, it's a great time to start exploring and visiting campuses, building resumes, and preparing for standardized tests! For middle schoolers, they are discovering their interests, developing study habits, and finding their way.

This month, I encourage you to support your students by helping them create a balance between their academic responsibilities, extracurriculars, and personal time. For college-bound high schoolers, help them stay organized with their application timelines and exploring scholarship opportunities. Middle school parents, it's never too early to start discussing college and career aspirations and how academic choices now will support future goals. Let's make November a productive, supportive, and encouraging month for our students and let me know how I can help! We have several options for tutoring support, and I can help you apply for scholarships offered through the education department. Just let me know!

FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) season is approaching fast! The application opens in December this year. We want to give you a head start by reviewing some financial aid types and terms.

Here are the main types of aid you can get through the FAFSA ranked in the order you should accept them:

1. Scholarships

Money for school you never pay back, usually linked to need or merit.

2. Grants

Money for school you don't pay back if you follow the rules.

3. Work-Study

Money for school you work for as a student employee at the college.

4. Subsidized Loans

Money you pay back. The amount you owe will begin to increase after you're done with college due to interest.

5. Unsubsidized Loans

Money you pay back. The amount you owe immediately starts increasing as soon as you take out the loan due to interest.

6. Direct Plus Loans

Money parents can borrow and pay back for their students. The amount they owe back immediately starts to increase due to interest.
